Face Lifting For College Landmark

The 28th year of Gardner-Webb as a college and the 49th of its total existence will soon come to a close. Two distinguished educators, Dr. J. A. Barry, Jr., President of Coker College, and Dean A. E. Tibbs of Furman University, will be our commencement speakers on Sunday, May 27, and Monday, May 28, respectively. The annual Alumni Banquet will be on Saturday evening, May 26. The Sunday service is at 8 p. m., and the program Monday morning begins at 10:30.

This year, our largest in enrollment, has been marked by the same loftiness of purpose and excellence of achievement as have former years. However, the same difficulties, intensified, loom up before us. We face the difficulty of increased enrollment with limited facilities. Too, our world is being torn with hate and bitterness; and our people and our institutions are being injured by our refusing to think. However, there are the same kind of fine boys and girls to train and there remains the indescribable thrill of touching spirits with them and watching them grow and reach above the narrowness that has enslaved us. They are our answer to an uncertain future.

A new dormitory to accommodate 100 extra girls is being completed this summer. Three new instructors are joining the teaching staff; Physics and perhaps Mechanical Drawing will be added to the curriculum.

By all means the Health and Physical Education Building should be begun this summer. Our total program of athletics, physical education and health will be crippled without it. The Steering Committee has recommended that we plan to start the Science and Classroom Building in 1957. The Huggins-Curtis Building can still serve a useful purpose for a few more years.

These advances will require sacrificial, intelligent, and studied giving. We must determine—and I think we have determined—to keep this institution a sound, progressive, and cherished asset to all the people of this area. To stand still is to go back. We must go forward to keep up. It would be unchristian to have the training here inferior to that of the first two years in any available college. Too, we must ever make training possible for the more unfortunate ones who are not financially able to go elsewhere.

The spirit of Gardner-Webb is the spirit of true scholarship and sacrificial service,

"Serving all who want her service."

Everyone who has contributed to its construction, taught in its classrooms, helped to maintain the plant, prepared and served the food, or in any way served or breathed an honest prayer for its success has had a part in training the 10,000 alumni who carry its spirit to the ends of the earth.

About The Cover

The tower of Dover Memorial Library is a landmark on the campus and for the townspeople as well.

Although students who finished school at Gardner-Webb before 1952 may not be familiar with it, the tower is a beautiful symbol to present and recent students at the college.

The Dover Memorial Library was made possible by generous contributions from Charles and Jack Dover of Shelby, and from the Dover Foundation. It bears the name of their father, the late John R. Dover, Sr.

In the cover picture Horace Scruggs and Hal B. Greene, maintenance personnel, dress up the tower with a new coat of paint. Both men have been on the maintenance staff for 10 years. Greene is an alumnus of 1919, and is married to the former Ola Crabtree ('20). Their daughter Caroline is now an honor student at the college, majoring in music.

Commencement Plans

Approximately 70 graduating students are expected to receive diplomas in commencement exercises Monday, May 28, at 10:30 a. m.

Dr. A. E. Tibbs, dean of Furman University, will be the commencement speaker for the ceremonies which will conclude the 49th school year.

The baccalaureate sermon is scheduled for Sunday night, May 27, at 8 o'clock. Dr. John A. Barry, president of Coker College, will deliver the message.

Dr. Tibbs

Dr. Barry

The commencement weekend, which begins with the alumni banquet May 26 and concludes with the presentation of diplomas, is expected to attract many parents and friends of the graduating class as well as hundreds of former students.

Bulldog Club Report

The Bulldog Club, organized last year to aid worthy athletes in getting an education, received over $1,000 in contributions and membership dues during its first year.

A full report is being prepared for club members. Advance information shows that some 50 boys received financial aid during the year.

Bulldog Club dues are $10 per year for an individual or $15 for a family. Membership gives free admission to all home games during the year and a free barbecue supper at Homecoming.

Enrollment And Academic News

Applications for enrollment for the fall semester are coming in at an encouraging rate. On May 1 the applications showed a 50 per cent increase over the same date last year.

Enrollment for the current year reached an all-time high of 472 students. The new 100-girl dormitory will provide sufficient additional space for a heavy increase in boarding girls, and the addition of physics to the curriculum is expected to attract a number of boys.

Summer school, which begins on June 11 and ends August 11, has every indication of enrolling well over 100 students. The dormitories will be open for boarding students during the summer session and the cafeteria will be open for their convenience.

A night school for college credit will operate next year concurrently with the regular school session. Courses will be offered in freshman English, history, Bible, and typing. College credit will be given, and the usual rigid college entrance requirements will be observed.

Faculty Promotions

Two Gardner-Webb teachers of long standing recently received promotions in rank by an act of the board of trustees. These promotions were based on their graduate study and their tenure of service

Christian Education Month Results

April was Christian Education Month throughout the Southern Baptist Convention territory. It was Gardner-Webb College Month as well in the Kings Mountain, Sandy Run, Green River, and Gaston Baptist Associations.

Almost all the churches in these associations gave special observance to the value of Christian Education. Many of them also took special offerings for completion of the new girls' dormitory at Gardner-Webb.

On May 1 the college had a total of $42,000 reported from the churches. Reports continue to come in, but it is evident the Gardner-Webb Day offering will fall far short of its goal of $80,000.

Hubert C. Dixon, who has taught at the college since 1935, was promoted from assistant professor to associate professor. Prof. Dixon has served in various offices, including dean and registrar, and for a number of years has headed the mathematics department.

Paul J. Stacy, teacher of biology for the past 15 years, was promoted from instructor to assistant professor. Known for his sincerity and his philosophical wit, Prof. Stacy has taught biology and chemistry, and occasionally directed the physical education program at the college. Since 1950 he has headed the biology department.

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Fellow Alumni:

At this time of year we enjoy the festivities appropriate to the season, festivities such as May Day with all its color and beauty, Field Day with the crowning of the champs, banquets with the accompanying pomp and ceremonies and the sober exhortation of commencement speakers. I am sure that most of us would like very much to forget many of the problems and tasks that face us. However, as we pause to make a hasty mental inventory of the year's accomplishments, we are reminded that we should be far more satisfied. There is still a long way for us to go to reach the financial goal set for the golden anniversary celebration of 1957.

I should like to thank everyone who has had any part in making this year a success. Also, I should like to urge every member of our association to give loyal support to the incoming officers so that next year will be one of the very best in our history.

The College Choir

One of Gardner-Webb's most enjoyable and entertaining mediums of public relations, the college choir, has made many appearances in several parts of North Carolina this year.

They sang last fall at the Kings Mountain Baptist Association and again at the Baptist State Convention in Asheville.

At the college the choir has sung for Founders Day, groundbreaking for the new dormitory, the Christmas banquet and for several chapel programs. The choir has also sung on four of this year's radio broadcasts from the college.

Trips to nearby churches have included First Baptist in Kings Mountain, Forest City First Baptist, Boiling Springs, and a combined congregation of Poplar Springs Baptist and Sharon Methodist Churches.

Robert G. Carr has directed the choir this year. Forty students are enrolled.

Alumni Banquet Plans

The annual Alumni Banquet will be held Saturday evening, May 26 at 7 o'clock. Every former student of the college or high school is urged to send in a reservation and attend.

Classes in special reunion are these:

1911 — 1913 — 1918 — 1923 —
1928 — 1933 — 1938 — 1943 —
1948 — 1953.

Informal entertainment will be featured, without a principal speaker. Reports will be heard from the college president and from the Alumni Association officers.

Faculty Additions And Resignations Announced

Five new faculty members have been employed by the college to begin their duties when school begins next September 3.

Three of these are new personnel added because of an ever-increasing enrollment. One is added because of new courses of study, and one is a replacement. Four present faculty members have resigned and their replacements will be announced shortly.

Miss Doris Jones, a native of Greenville, S. C., is to be the new dean of women. Miss Jones is a graduate of Furman University and Southwestern Baptist Seminary, and for the past two years has been dean of women at Wingate College.

Seth L. Washburn will join the faculty as assistant professor of physics. Prof. Washburn is a Gardner-Webb graduate in the class of 1939 and earned the B. S. degree at Wake Forest two years later. He has done considerable graduate study, and has taught in the public schools for nine years.

The addition of physics gives Gardner-Webb all the facilities and courses for science and engineering majors demanded by engineering schools for two years of study.

The three added faculty members are Claude Henry Britt, Jr. of Dunn, Jean McSwain of Shelby, and Gail Baucom of Rockingham. Mr. Britt, a graduate of Wake Forest and the University of Alabama, will be an assistant professor of Spanish. Miss McSwain, a graduate of Gardner-Webb in 1953 and Wake Forest in 1955, will be an instructor in English. Miss Baucom will be assistant librarian. She too is a Gardner-Webb alumna of 1954, and graduates this spring at Appalachian State Teachers College.

Resignations have been received from Miss Mabel Starnes, Mrs. Helen C. Barnett, Robert G. Carr, and Miss Laura Jean Keeter. Miss Starnes, dean of women since 1950, goes to Carson Newman College to teach Bible. Mrs. Barnett will make her home in Asheville, where she will be joined by her son when he is discharged from military service. Mr. Carr will join Cumberland College in Lebanon, Tenn., as head of the music department, and Miss Keeter plans to be married next month.

Trustees Decide To Continue Segregation

The college trustees decided on February 13 that Gardner-Webb will admit no Negro students. The trustees reached their decision after hearing a lengthy report by a special fact-finding committee of five board members.

Present for the meeting were 23 of the 28 trustees. The vote to continue segregation was by a tremendous majority.

The motion adopted by the trustees reads as follows:

"That because the preponderant majority of the constituency of Gardner-Webb College reporting their opinion in the survey conducted by a special committee appointed for the purpose were decidedly against the admission of Negro students, and because the college cannot operate without their wholehearted support and because the student body was substantially divided on the problem, we as a board of trustees express as our opinion that we are not ready for the admission of Negroes to Gardner-Webb College."

The trustees were acting on a request from the Baptist State Convention that the trustees of each of the Baptist colleges reach their own decision on whether to admit Negro students. The situation at Gardner-Webb became more significant when a Rutherford County Negro youth wrote a letter of inquiry about the possibility of applying for admission.

In an effort to get the full opinion of the people served by the college, the special committee polled pastors and deacons in local churches, and faculty and students at the college as to their views on segregation. Results of the survey were not made public other than in the wording of the motion adopted by the board.

IN MEMORY

FRED D. CALDWELL, attorney of Maiden and Gardner-Webb alumnus of 1924, died of a sudden illness on May 2.

Mr. Caldwell was a trustee of the college at the time of his death, having been appointed in January to a four-year term. He had previously served on the board from 1948 through 1951.

Trustees and officials of the college knew Mr. Caldwell as a devoted, generous, and tireless worker for his Alma Mater.
